Planning a major trip can be an extremely stressful experience, unless you're working with Andrea Thomasson at Gallivanter Travel, Rockhampton

We recently returned from overseas.

We had a very limited amount of time to experience vast areas of Europe, with a specific focus on seeing Eastern Europe this time. Andrea arranged an amazing itinerary with flights through the Middle East, thoughtfully building in restful stopovers between each tour.

Then, the Middle East war broke out, and our flights were abruptly cancelled just six weeks before our departure

It seemed like absolutely no effort for Andrea to completely reschedule all our flights and accommodation.

Shortly after, just four weeks before we were due to leave, one of our major tours was also cancelled. I read that email in a total panic—until I reached the section showing how Andrea had already proactively rearranged all our tours, flights, accommodation, and transfer arrangements.

What could have gone wrong with such a brilliant Travel Agent?

Flights can go wrong! Cancelled and late flights could have caused immense stress, but not when your bookings are made through a top-class agency, with a top-class Travel Agent.

Any concerns we faced while overseas were dealt with in the early hours of the morning, Australian time. while we slept peacefully in our wonderful hotels.

When we woke up, solutions were already presented and new arrangements were made—with zero stress for us.

Why would anyone travel in current times without a Travel Agent Extraordinaire like Andrea Thomasson at Gallivanter Travel, Rockhampton?

Thank you, Andrea. You're amazing!"
